CARS far and away is one of the most important sections on the test. Strip away all the science, a students education, undergrad rep, and CARS is getting at the pure critical thinking the MCAT is "supposed" to look for (according to the AAMC anyway). From what I've seen, score imbalance like this eliminates MD schools as a realistic option.

The MCAT's Critical Analysis and Reasoning Skills (CARS) section is a challenge for many pre-med students. You may have spent your undergrad studying the sciences without much time for casual or academic reading. Also, unlike the sciences you are used to, you can't study cold hard facts to improve your verbal (CARS) score.
