The differences model, which argues that males and females are vastly different psychologically, dominates the popular media. Here, the author advances a very different view, the gender similarities hypothesis, which holds that males and females are similar on most, but not all, psychological variables. Results from a review of 46 meta-analyses support the gender similarities hypothesis.

The gender similarities hypothesis.

Look carefully at the wiring, it's likely a common change just to put a pair of 4-ohm 2-way speakers in the backbox, and just wire them in series so the amp sees 8-ohms. I think that would sound good, but personally, I like the pseudo-stereo effect of midrange on the left and tweeter on the right with controllable balance to the cabinet woofer.
